

AS SEEN IN Architectural Digest
HOME AND DESIGN | LAS VEGAS

DREAM TEAM

With an unparalleled reputation throughout the Las Vegas home building community, Cyndi and Ray Huff of Dream Construction Co. guide clients from first drawings to front door keys.

It can start with a napkin.

"When we meet with clients for the first time, sometimes they'll pull out a paper napkin with a rough sketch on it. That's the first step, and it's exciting for everyone!" says Cyndi Huff, managing partner of Dream Construction Co., a Las Vegas-based custom homebuilding company. "It's our job to take that initial seed of an idea and transform it into the home they've visualized for so long—and to make that process as seamless and stress-free as possible. As a family business, we're deeply involved every step of the way."

Huff, with decades of construction experience behind her, established the company in 2007. Her husband, Ray, joined forces with her in 2015, bringing with him a vast knowledge of land acquisition, development, and vertical construction. Together, the Huffs focus on crafting luxury custom homes—while adhering to an ethos they describe as "unconditional integrity." They are happy to work with a client's existing plans or offer the services of their own licensed, in-house architect. The company also excels at luxury remodels—everything from kitchens and bathrooms to garages and casitas—all executed with the exacting standards and attention to detail their clients expect and deserve.

The company's most recent project, the Reyes residence, is a graceful, multilevel, stone and stucco extension of the dramatic desert landscape that surrounds it. "We love the way this house interacts with its site," says Cyndi. "The front, which faces the mountains, features a stunning porte cochere; the back of the house faces the Las Vegas strip—truly the best of both worlds."

